Are you a sibling of someone with a disability?

BrothErs and Sisters involvement in health care TranSition for youth wIth Brain-based disabilitieS (BEST SIBS) Study

We are looking for siblings to take part in a research study to understand their experiences with their brother or sister with a brain-based disability who is preparing for health care transition in Ontario.

You will have the option to have the interview: a) in-person at McMaster University; b) by telephone; or c) online through the Zoom program.

To thank you for participating, we will provide you with an e-gift card of $20 or volunteer hours for students in high school.

You will be asked to:

We hope to raise awareness about siblings' experiences and their roles during health care transition. These stories can help us to create resources to support siblings, and shared with families and health care providers.
